Following the renewal of the Board of Directors, Josep Maria Tost i Borràs, Director of the Catalan Waste Agency (ARC), was appointed unanimously as ACR+ President for another 2-year term. In his second tenure Josep Maria Tost i Borràs is eager to pursue the core work of ACR+, supporting cities and regions towards better resource efficiency.

In addition, the newly elected Board of Directors appointed Roberto Cavallo, President of AICA, as Expert member of the Board.

On the same day, an international conference was organised by ACR+ and its member WasteServ Malta. This event, focusing on food waste and bio-waste management, was opened by Karmenu Vella, the European Commissioner for Environment, Maritime Affairs and Fisheries, who insisted on the importance of preventing food waste stating that "reducing food waste is the easiest and most effective way to reduce pressure on the environment."
